Why Buy a DCFF Shirt? (first new shirt design since 2010)

When the world changed (with the pandemic), the International Folk Dance (IFD) community didn't stop dancing. We adapted. We transformed global challenges into massive opportunities, using new technology to bring old friends and new dancers together across the globe.

While moving to virtual and hybrid spaces has connected us to a worldwide treasure-trove of dancers, it has also changed how we fund the magic. Without pre-traditional pre-pandemic "at-the-door" admission fees, we rely on many ways to keep the music playing.

By purchasing a DCFF T-shirt, you're literally "getting your foot in the door" for the future of folk dancing. Every dollar over cost directly funds our retaining staff (instructors, musicians, work scholars, volunteers), maintaining technology (computer, internet and a/v equipment), renewing software subscriptions, preserving historical records and retaining dance facilities that keep our community alive, vibrant, and moving forward.

Whether you're attending in person or via Zoom or even if you're just unable to attend this year, support DCFF by purchasing the newly designed DCFF T-Shirt, Sweater, etc.

BTW Saturday, July 11th at the festival will be "DCFF Shirt Day" at the festival. Be sure to wear your shirt!

Many thanks to graphic designer, Grace Kepple Ernat, for a lovely design. Grace formerly danced with the Fermi Lab group before she married and moved away from the Chicago area.
